DETAILED ACTION

Claim Objections

1. Claim 1 is objected to because of the following informalities: The claim recites the limitation "EVA", without defining the abbreviated term. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 1-4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Guevara et al. US Patent Application Publication 2001/0003797 in view of Osborn USPN 4964857.

As to claim 1, Guevara discloses an environmentally friendly degradable diaper. Guevara discloses the diaper contains an EVA material, LDPE, stearic acid, polyethylene, and calcium carbonate (Abstract and paragraphs 0036, 0038, 0041, and 0068). However, with respect to the limitations of percentages of the claimed materials, the specification contains no disclosure of either the critical nature of the claim limitations nor any unexpected results arising therefrom, and that as such the limitations were arbitrary and therefore obvious. Such unsupported limitations cannot be a basis for patentability, since where patentability is said to be based upon particular dimensions or another variable in the claim, the applicant must show that the chosen variables are critical. In re Woodruff, 919 F.2d 1575, 1578, 16 USPQ 2d 1934 (Fed. Cir. 1990). One having ordinary skill in the art would be able to determine through routine experimentation the ideal levels of components for a particular application.

Guevara does not disclose wax is used as a component. Osborn discloses the use of natural wax in a biodegradable disposable diaper because wax has moisture repellent properties and is capable of complete biodegradation within a few weeks time (Osborn col. 2, lines 37-51). It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to incorporate wax in the invention of Guevara for the benefits disclosed in Osborn.

As to claims 2-4, the limitations regarding the sanitary napkins, pants-shaped diapers, and sanitary pads are directed to an intended use of the article. Intended use must result in a structural difference between the claimed invention and the prior art in order to patentably distinguish the claimed invention from the prior art. See In re Casey, 152 USPQ 235 (CCPA 1967) and In re Otto, 136 USPQ 458, 459 (CCPA 1963). If the prior art structure is capable of performing the intended use, then it meets the claim limitations.
